

Read this passage, place the words in bold into the crossword - a clue is that the word down is the size of the repeating unit of sound.

The band is ready!

Name .....

Jemima plays the lead, she uses an electric guitar that she made herself, with a red body and a blue fret-board. Tuning sounds simple - turn the nuts at the head and the pitch changes - but you have to be an expert like Jemmy to get the frequency exactly right. She seems to have a dozen fingers - zipping up and down the strings, changing the length - fantastic!

Ben always needs help in carrying all his kit - one bass drum, three side-drums, two tom-toms and four cymbals - what a lot and he can make so much noise! You can really feel the vibrations when he thumps the pedal of the big drum, that really puts the intensity through the roof!

I don't have that problem, I'm Cas, I play the keyboard - press different keys and get a new frequency - simple! Press faster and the sound gets louder- easy! Doing that with eight fingers and two thumbs - tricky! And everything is amplified - all that volume being bounced out of a massive woofer - rock is great!

remember: the word down is the repeating unit of sound

Now draw a super-fantastic picture of the group - with the name splattered across the big drum!
